Invitation to a Media Conference

WEATHER REPORT About Weather Culture and Climate Science 7 October 2017 to 4 March 2018

Weather is climate made tangible, and the record of weather patterns over a period of thirty years can be read as a climate trend. Weather and climate determine our life and survival on earth. The exhibition asks to what extent short-term weather events and long-term climate change influence human civilisation and culture. Adopting an interdisciplinary approach to this highly topical subject, the exhibition presents a wide range of objects, spanning art, cultural history and science from all over the world. Amongst many others the show includes works by John Constable, William Turner, Gustave Courbet and Otto Modersohn. The history of meteorology and current aspects of global climate change play a central role in the exhibition. The wonder and beauty of the individual weather phenomena and their scientific computation and explanation are given equal billing.

An Exhibition by the Bundeskunsthalle and the Deutsches Museum
In Cooperation with the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) and the Deutscher Wetterdienst
